

Canadian Low-Voltage Busbar Companies

Article Overview

Canada hosts several specialized manufacturers of low-voltage copper and aluminum busbars, including Solution Controls, FLEX Busbar Mfg Ltd, Wesgar, and Vectis Manufacturing.

Key Manufacturers and Capabilities

Solution Controls (Ontario) specializes in copper and aluminum busbar fabrication for medium-voltage switchgear systems, offering cutting, punching, bending, plating, and heat-shrinking for insulation. They provide custom designs using SolidWorks for precise fit and performance, supporting single and double busbar configurations for reliable power distribution . FLEX Busbar Mfg Ltd (Proton Station, ON) manufactures custom copper and aluminum busbars for electrical, industrial, and power distribution applications. Their services include raw, plated, punched, bent, and fully fabricated busbars using CNC, laser, and waterjet technology. They cater to switchgear, OEMs, and renewable energy systems across Canada and the U.S. . Wesgar (British Columbia) produces custom copper bus bars, component assemblies, and precision enclosures for switchgear, control panels, and power systems. They emphasize high-current performance, thermal stability, and compliance with quality and safety standards, supporting renewable energy and critical infrastructure projects . Vectis Manufacturing (Brampton, ON) offers CNC fabrication of copper and aluminum busbars, including cutting, punching, and bending to customer specifications, with fast turnaround times for low-voltage applications .
