

US Environmentally Friendly Electrical Distribution Box Manufacturer

Article Overview

Several U.S. manufacturers provide eco-friendly electrical distribution boxes, combining sustainability, high-quality materials, and compliance with environmental standards.

Key U.S. Manufacturers

1. EWJ EWJ specializes in metal enclosures, including aluminum and stainless steel distribution boxes. Their products comply with RoHS, CE, and ISO9001 standards, ensuring environmentally responsible manufacturing practices. EWJ supports custom OEM solutions and focuses on high-end, durable enclosures suitable for low-voltage electrical systems, emphasizing quality and sustainability in production . 2. VIOX Electric VIOX offers ABS and stainless steel distribution boxes with high IP ratings and enhanced safety features. They provide custom solutions for residential, commercial, and industrial applications. Their designs prioritize durability and efficiency, which contributes to longer product life and reduced environmental impact . 3. CID Controls and Panel-Fab These U.S.-based manufacturers produce custom power distribution enclosures using materials like aluminum, steel, stainless steel, and fiberglass-reinforced plastics. Many of their enclosures are resistant to corrosion and wear, extending lifespan and reducing waste. They also offer NEMA-rated and UL-listed products, supporting compliance with environmental and safety standards .
